

Follow in the footsteps of Dr Bach who, in the words of his biographer Nora Weeks: 'would often take his stick and tramp the fields and lanes around Cromer from morning till night ...'

Cromer was a very special place for Bach. After years observing disease, he came here to study healthy and happy people having fun.

Here he completed his research on the 12 personality types and made 9 of the first 19 remedies.

We will provide a guided tour to some of his original locations.

Like Bach, walk around the town and experience its unique atmosphere. See where he lived and take in the sights that form an integral part of his much-loved story.

The Conference is being held at the Pavilion Theatre, on the end of Cromer pier.

Nearby is the lifeboat station. Like his observation of the fishermen, the lifeboat is a well-known feature of Bach's extraordinarily creative time at Cromer.

We meet within the story – with magnificent views of the town, the bracing sea breeze and all the fun of the English seaside.
